Book Online Reservations and Plan Fly Drive Itineraries with Rand McNally's TripMaker Deluxe and StreetFinder Deluxe 1998 Editions

DATE: September 17, 1997

WORD COUNT: 670

SKOKIE, Ill. , Sept. 17 /PRNewswire/ -- Rand McNally, America's trusted source for geographic information, today announced an agreement with online travel leaders Internet Travel Network (ITN) and Worldview Systems Corporation. The agreement will deliver a unique and comprehensive online travel information and reservation feature, completely integrated into a travel software product.

Through this partnership, Internet Travel Network will provide online booking capabilities, and Worldview Systems will complement Rand McNally's extensive travel content by offering information on special events, attractions and international content.

"Rand McNally is pleased to offer TripMaker(R) Deluxe 1998 Edition and StreetFinder(R) Deluxe 1998 Edition software, offering users a complete online reservation system, allowing users to have all of their travel information including airline tickets, hotel reservations and attraction information incorporated into their travel itinerary. This capability is cutting edge for mapping software," said Neil Vill, vice president and general manager, Rand McNally New Media and Transportation Data Management Divisions.

In keeping with TripMaker software's position as the best selling and most trusted product for trip planning, the new online reservation system will make planning fly/drive trips even easier. Travelers can now design customized driving plans with TripMaker and StreetFinder Deluxe, then visit the new reservations system on the Rand McNally Website (www.randmcnally.com) to make airline, car rental and hotel reservations in a few easy steps. Reservations can then be incorporated into the TripMaker or StreetFinder Deluxe itinerary, allowing users to print reservations complete with street maps, address information, driving directions and travel information.

"With the partnership of ITN and Worldview, Rand McNally now offers a full-service travel Website. In addition to making reservations and gathering travel content, users can access Rand McNally's Website to get road condition updates, weather forecasts, address-to-address directions and much more," said Vill.

About Rand McNally

Rand McNally, founded in 1856 in Chicago, is the world's largest commercial map-maker and the premier global provider of geographic information in both print and electronic media for travel, reference, education and entertainment. About Worldview Systems

Worldview Systems, a leading publisher of online and interactive destination information, was founded in San Francisco in 1987. Today, the company offers the largest proprietary online travel and entertainment database featuring worldwide events and attractions. A co-creator of Travelocity and Outtahere, Worldview correspondents and in-house travel writers gather, translate and prepare the time-sensitive information to ensure an "insider perspective" on local activities and sights around the world.

Worldview also produces live online travel chats, travel bulletin boards and a merchant mall where travel accessories can be purchased online. The company's growing list of online distribution partners includes Bloomberg Financial Markets, CompuServe, Internet Travel Network, Netcom, SABRE Interactive, Salon Magazine, Southwest Airlines, UNIGLOBE and USA TODAY. Worldview is a joint venture of Random House and Ameritech Corp. Additional company information is available on the Internet at <http://www.wvs.com>.
